eDiscoveri Publishes Storm Center Webpage

1 January 2012 – eDiscoveri President Ralph W. Russell, II announced today that eDiscoveri had published its first “Storm Center” webpage at <http://ediscoveri.com/externallinks/stormcenter.html>. The “Storm Center” is being provided to support eDiscoveri’s mission of helping customers increase operational uptime through improved electric supply reliability. The new webpage will provide links to electric utility on-line storm centers, outage reporting and weather reports in the Virginia area that commercial, industrial and governmental customers can use to monitor electricity outages in their area.

eDiscoveri was formed to help customers:

- Manage relationships with electric utilities
- Increase operational uptime through improved electric supply reliability
- Reduce energy costs

eDiscoveri, a small business located in Henrico, VA USA, can provide industrial, governmental and commercial customer with tools and services to help them “discover energy solutions”.
